VIOLA - MASTERCLASS

TATJANA MASURENKO YURI BONDAREV

22. – 26. March 2017

International Music Academy Anton Rubinstein Berlin

Tatjana Masurenko stems from a Russian scientist's and jazz musician's family. She studied in St. Petersburg and later in Germany with Kim Kashkashian and Nobuko Imai. Her expressive and passionate way of playing and the special, very personal sound colours of her viola give her a distinctive profile. Moreover, they distinguish her as one of the world's leading and renowned interpreters of her field. In addition, Tatjana Masurenko is a passionate and favored pedagogue; since 2003, she is professor for viola at the University of Music and Theatre Leipzig.

Yuri Bondarev born in St. Petersburg. Yuri studied with Prof. Picard and Prof. Mücke at the Hochschule für Musik „Hanns Eisler“ Berlin. After his graduation final recital in Berlin he decided to continue his musical career as a viola player and joined the class of Prof. Tatjana Masurenko at the Hochschule für Musik „Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy“ Leipzig. Yuri has performed as a soloist and as a chamber musician in Russia, Germany, Austria, Italy, France, Greece, Japan and many other countries. Further chamber music groups took him to concerts in Musikverein in Vienna, Gewandhaus in Leipzig and Conservatory in Milano. In 2009 he took up the position of Co-Principal Viola at the Düsseldorf Symphony Orchestra and from 2012 he also Docent in the International Music Academy “Anton Rubinstein”.
